ENG 101/ English 7A

10 December 2015

Abstract: Your abstract should be right HERE. After the typical top information and before the paper title. Change the spacing to single, change the font to italics. Start with "Abstract:" and go from there. Double space between paragraphs (if you write more than one) and don't indent at all – keep it left-aligned.

Write a couple of short paragraphs that introduce your paper. Why did you pick this topic? Why did you take the angle you took on it? How did the process of the paper happen? Did you do any revisions? How was the reception in WRITE CLUB? Was the paper different than you initially imagined? Anyway, anything that can help the reader have an intro to your paper, an intro that is about the WRITING of the paper more than the content.

Example Paper Title

Here the paper resumes to normal MLA format. Strict double spacing, zero before and after, regular font (no more italics), etc. Hopefully, it's an awesome paper that captivates the reader whilst delivering a message. Hopefully, it's writing that "does work."
